

Kiwi

- Kiwifruit, better known as kiwi, are brown and fuzzy on the outside and have green or golden yellow soft flesh on the inside.
 - They are berries and have rows of tiny black seeds on the inside that you can eat.
 - Kiwi are sweet and tangy. What does yours taste like?
 - Originally from China, most kiwi is grown in Italy, Chile and New Zealand but it is named after New Zealand's national bird, the Kiwi.
 - Kiwi grows on a vine and is pollinated by bees.
 - Kiwi is good for your skin, blood, tummy, and helps to keep you from getting sick.
