

Meal Modifications for Allergies, Intolerance and Disability

- Grain Valley Schools:
  - Will, at all times, make meal modifications prescribed by a licensed physician to accommodate a disability.
  - Will, at its discretion, make meal modifications prescribed by a licensed physician due to a food allergy/intolerance or other medical condition that does not rise to the level of a disability. Please contact Food Services to discuss modification possibilities.

Grain Valley School District Food Service must receive the medical statement before the school can modify a student's meals. Parents should follow the medical statement instructions carefully for each meal category. Each section must be entirely completed and signed by a physician before modifications can be started. Parents with questions should contact Andy Hughes at ahughes@gvr5.net or 816-994-4812. Otherwise please email the completed medical statement to ahughes@gvr5.net or mail it to:

Nut Allergy Policy

Due to the large number of severe nut allergies in our district, Grain Valley produces school meals as nut free as possible. Nut products are avoided in any produced item in our kitchens. There are nut products in the building for use in the catering department. These items are prepared on separate tables from where school items are produced. Grain Valley Schools checks all ingredient labels of purchased items for the elementary meals to ensure, to the best of our ability, they do not contain nut ingredients or processed in a plant that manufactures peanut products. However, there are pre-packaged products that contain nuts in the secondary snack/a la carte lines as well as Uncrustable sandwiches served for breakfast.
