

Fun Facts

Texas Grown Fruits and Vegetables

These fun facts about Texas grown fruits and vegetables will make you learn their uses in food and the great benefits of eating them. Stay Healthy!!

Apples

Season in Texas: July-November

Did you know? Apples are the most popular fruit in the United States! Red Delicious apples are ranked as the No. 1 apple grown in the country.

Asparagus

Season in Texas: March-April

Did you know? It takes three years to pick fully-grown asparagus from the time you plant the seed! Serve hot off a grill or pan to make these elderly veggies worth the wait!

Beets

Season in Texas: September-November; January-March
Beets are a fantastic addition to salads! Grate raw beets over a salad for a burst of color. Be careful, though, as beets will stain just about anything!

Bell Peppers

Season in Texas: May-June; August-November
Did you know? Bell peppers are a tangy, sweet addition to any salad or stir-fry. Loaded with vitamins A and C, these big peppers are a great food to eat anytime!

Blueberries

Season in Texas: May-July
Did you know? Blueberries are a very good source of vitamin K, vitamin C and manganese! They are also rich in dietary fiber that promotes digestive health.

Broccoli

Season in Texas: October-May
Don't be frightened by this little green floret! Did you know that broccoli is loaded with vitamins K and C, and folate, so next time you're eating a meal break off a few pieces and enjoy a mightily healthy addition to your day!

Cabbage

Season in Texas: Year-Round

Did you know? Cabbage is a versatile veggie! Cruciferous cabbage can be shredded raw into your salads, stir-fried with meat and rice, or even pickled to make sauerkraut!

Cantaloupe

Season in Texas: May-June; August-November

Did you know? Cantaloupes are a wonderful source of vitamins C and A, and have been found to lower risk of developing issues such as metabolic syndrome.

Carrots

Season in Texas: August-May

Did you know? Carrots are rich in vitamins A, C, and K and come in all shapes, sizes, as well as colors. Orange, yellow, purple, white, and red varieties are available to enjoy!

Cauliflower

Season in Texas: October-May

Did you know? Cauliflower comes in different colors: white, green, purple, and even orange! This veggie can be snacked on raw, or even cooked and grated as a substitute for rice!

Cucumbers

Season in Texas: April-December

If you're having trouble drinking enough water throughout the day, snack on cucumbers! Made of up to 95% water, cucumbers make a healthy, refreshing snack to beat the Texas heat!

Green Beans

Season in Texas: May-June; October-November

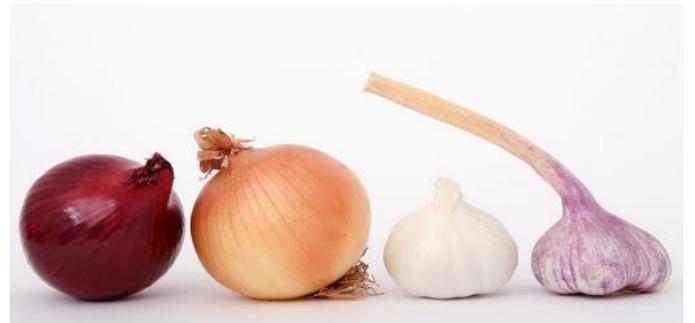

There's nothing better than a side of fresh, Texas green beans on your plate! These funky little beans can be steamed and made into an easy addition to a balanced diet.

Onions

Season in Texas: March-September

Did you know? The reason you cry in the kitchen isn't actually because chopping onions is an emotional experience; it's because they contain a chemical irritant that causes your tear ducts to release tears!

Oranges

Season in Texas: September-April

Did you know? Oranges are not only a great source of vitamin C, but fiber as well. Enjoy oranges whole instead of juiced, for a tangy, vibrant snack!

Peanuts

Season in Texas: September-October

Did you know? Though peanuts are considered by many to be the best known “nut”, they are actually a member of the legume family! The legume family reunion photo also contains beans, lentils, and peas!

Pomegranates

Season in Texas: October-December

Did you know? Pomegranates are full of small, edible seeds, and are typically retrieved by hitting the outside of the shell so they fall out.

Strawberries

Season in Texas: April-June

Did you know? Strawberries are a hybrid fruit created in France in the 1750s from two species of the plant genus Fragaria! Enjoy these FrankenFruits at their best during the hot, Texas summer!

Sweet Potatoes

Season in Texas: August-May

Did you know? Sweet potatoes are a root vegetable common on many Thanksgiving tables. Enjoy these as a delicious substitute for conventional potatoes!

Tomatoes

Season in Texas: April-December

Did you know? Tomatoes are absolutely bursting with antioxidants! Rich in vitamins A, C, and K, potassium and manganese, enjoy your Texas tomatoes in salads, as a topping, or straight out of the garden!

Watermelon

Season in Texas: May-October

Did you know? Watermelon is actually around 92% water! This sweet, summer treat is a great source of vitamins A, C and the antioxidant lycopene, and is a fantastic, healthy snack to enjoy to beat the heat!

